

TSA ANNOUNCES COALITION FOR INDEPENDENT TRUCKERS & AMBASSADOR PROGRAM

The Coalition for Independent Truckers is a coalition of independent truckers, motor carriers, service providers, independent associations and affiliated organizations committed to the singular mission of protecting and enhancing the independent contractor capacity model that is vital to the trucking industry and the economy of the United States.

The non-partisan coalition represents a unified and powerful voice that believes the hundreds of thousands of truckers operating as independent contractors, each one a vibrant small business, constitute an irreplaceable element of our national logistics network and the U.S. economy.

Our nation's lawmakers, the media, and our neighbors simply aren't familiar with the independent contractor business model in the trucking industry, and this coalition was formed to develop tools like the Independent Contractor Ambassador program in order to give these business people a voice," said Bill Webb of the Coalition for Independent Truckers.

"Independent Contractor Ambassadors have an important role to play. We are asking them to be the public face of the independent contractor business model and do their part in protecting this key piece of the trucking industry."

AMBASSADORS NEEDED

As part of this mission, the coalition launched the Independent Contractor Ambassador program to create outreach opportunities for independent contractors to educate policymakers, the media, and the general public on the important role the independent contractor business model plays in the trucking industry. The program will provide a stipend for Independent Contractor Ambassadors for their time spent at an event and other associated costs.
